

WELCOME TO VOLUME 9, ISSUE THREE OF "WEEDER'S DIGEST"

Our Garden Club has many exceptional components! The quality of speakers, we continually enjoy at our monthly meetings, is one feature that continually impresses me.

At our last meeting, Debra Lee Baldwin, was the first presenter in our "Speaker Series" and I say, "BRAVO," to Debra, whose presentation was delivered in such an enjoyable style. She was gracious, charming and generous, sharing with us a basketful of Othonna Capensis cuttings from her garden. I also say, "BRAVO" to our club, who put together such a flawless event.

The following sections of correspondence between our president, Jeanne and Debra Lee exemplify my applause.

Hi Debra Lee-

I thoroughly enjoyed your presentation last Friday! I think everyone was inspired. I've been trying your idea of holding my succulents next to different pots to get the right look. It really makes a difference... Thanks again for a great presentation!

Hi, Jeanne --

Everything was handled beautifully by everyone---so seldom do things go as perfectly as they did that day. Kudos to you and your volunteers and board members. What a great group. I wish I could have met more of them... Thanks again to you and the Laguna Beach Garden Club for a stellar experience!

November 8, with Stephen Orr, our guest speaker, promises to be another great affair.

A REQUEST DURING QUESTION & ANSWER

To: All who attend our monthly Meetings:
From: Lynn Jax, Vice President, Programs

Since we have taken advantage of the all-day parking, I ask that during the Q&A time period after the presentation is complete, and in respect to our presenter, to those in the audience who pose the question AND to those who would like to hear the answer, PLEASE remain in your seats until the Q&A is complete. If you must leave early, please sit at the BACK of Tankersley Hall to lessen any disruption. Also I ask you to refrain from private conversations for the same reason.

The presenter will be available after the Q&A for individual questions and for book signing – Thank You for Cooperation!

TOMORROW'S GARDEN

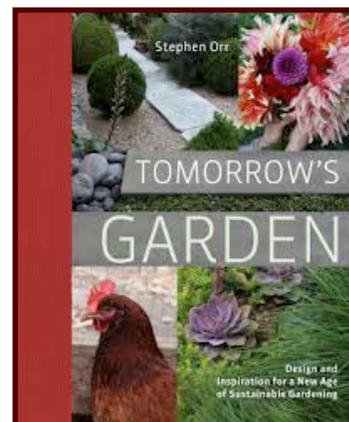

STEPHEN ORR

Mr. Orr is the current editorial director for gardening at Martha Stewart Living and previous garden editor for House & Garden and Domino magazines. He has written extensively for The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal and other publications. In addition, Stephen regularly appears as the gardening expert on CBS's "Early Show" and NBC's "Today Show". He produced a segment for PBS TV series "Cultivating Life" and edited two American versions of garden cookbooks by British author Sarah Raven, one of which is titled In Season for Rizzoli Books. He is proud to be involved with two non-profit gardening groups: Wave Hills in Bronx, NY and The Garden Conservancy.

He lives and gardens in New York City and the Catskills. He is a self-taught gardener and believes that everyone has a green thumb even if he or she doesn't know it yet. His lifelong interest in plants was born in the backyard of his childhood home in the otherwise sparse landscape of West Texas. His parents' decision to travel, far and often, led him to the beauty of botanical gardens and historic estates; those early horticultural inspirations influenced him to move to New York City after college graduation and become a garden editor and writer.

His garden blog, "What Were the Skies Like" can be found at: <http://whatweretheskieslike.blogspot.com>

His first book, Tomorrow's Garden: Design and Inspiration for a New Age of Sustainable Gardening, was published by Rodale Books in 2011. Copies will be available for sale by Laguna Beach Books at the meeting, and he will gladly autograph your copy.

BOARD MEMBER PROFILE

SUE GOLDBERGER: WEBMISTRESS

As our club's webmistress, I enjoy keeping my computer skills fresh and sharing our club's special events and gardening information on the Internet with both members and the general public. I have been a member since 2008 when some of my tennis friends invited me as a guest. Since I no longer play tennis, I now devote lots of time to gardening. Weekly gardening at the Hortense Miller Garden in Laguna, writing garden articles for the Laguna Niguel Patch and designing small residential gardens are a few of the ways I keep myself busy.

I also volunteer weekly at the Mission Viejo Library where I list books for sale on Amazon to help raise money for the library.

I have been married to my sweet husband Bob for as long as I can remember. We have one daughter, one granddaughter and a "bagelhound" (half basset half beagle) called Coco. My granddaughter has spent one day a week with me since she was born. She helps me in my garden and together we have built and planted a small vegetable garden.

For friendship, exercise, creativity and nurturing the earth, there is nothing like gardening.

PLEASE WELCOME OUR NEW MEMBERS

POLLY DIX: MEMBERSHIP

We are very fortunate to have eight new members join the Laguna Beach Garden Club. Because the business aspect of our November meeting will once again be abbreviated, the board has, once again, opted to have Polly Dix's interviews presented via the Weeder's Digest. Polly will attach a green ribbon to each of their name tags and Jeanne will ask each new member to stand at the November meeting so you can visually be introduced as well. Please enjoy Polly's interviews and make welcome the following new members.

Jan Kain is happily sharing her time between their home in Laguna Beach and their new home in Idyllwild after downsizing from a larger home in Irvine. Jan's career has been as a Certified Health Professional along with raising her daughter, who is now a Personal Trainer at "Perfect Workout", and a son who is living in Coeur d' Alene, Idaho. Jan has been a Plein Air painter for several years and as a highlight traveled to Provence with her Plein Air painting class. Say hello if you see Jan with her easel painting at Heisler Park or the Montage. Jan is looking forward to her association with other garden club members and the different activities of the club.

Ann Lester: Garden Grove was their home until six years ago when they moved to Laguna Woods and being a gardener herself she joined the Laguna Woods Garden Club. They, like our club, have speakers and recently had programs on begonias and orchids and they take group trips to various gardens throughout the southland. Ann has taken classes in art and quilting and now is trying to master stained glass. They have joined the Laguna Woods RV group with their travel trailer which has led to many nice outings the latest being to Chula Vista on San Diego Bay. Ann and her husband raised three boys that now have families of their own and the grandkids count is seven.

Sandra Montag has been interested in gardening for many years and receives pleasure in viewing and getting ideas from some very splendid gardens such as the Descanso Gardens in San Marino and Huntington Gardens in Pasadena. After 30 years, she is retired as an attorney spending the last years as a litigator for CNA in Brea, and is currently giving back to her community by serving on the board of her homeowners association. Sandra has one daughter and family living in Colorado and looks forward to her trips there to be with her 5 year old grandson. She is a member of Presbyterian Church and pleased that Kathy Sizer suggested she join our garden club. Sandra also belongs to the active Gals Group here at Laguna Presbyterian.

Marcia Fulcher was born and raised in Orange County and has been putting her talents and interests to work in remodeling and designing several of their homes in areas including Laguna Beach and San Clemente where they now live. She has also been an antiques collector since she was a teenager. She has liked gardening since she was a young girl and she made each of their homes and gardens into showpieces. Marcia has had her gardens on many tours including the Mary Lou Heard and San Clemente garden tours. By the way she is also a member of the San Clemente Garden Club, but interested in our garden club because of the outstanding speakers. She just entertained a photographer in her garden and will be published in the Vintage Garden Magazine after the first of the year. Marcia's daughter, a writer and editor, has just moved to France in anticipation of her marriage to a French artist that she met while he was here. Note: her daughter was named Chelsea after the Chelsea Flower Show in England.

Jinx Langemak is a 40 year resident of Laguna Beach on Cresta Way with many succulents spread across her property and donated many for the Waterwise Gardens Program of the Laguna Beach Water Department. Jinx tells of living in Germany after WWII and attending a boarding school as one of her greatest experiences as a young girl growing up. She became a First Grade teacher later in life at an elementary school in Santa Ana teaching many Hispanic children in her classroom who were learning a second language. She has two daughters both living in San Francisco and dedicated to helping adults and children in different areas of healthcare. Jinx joined the garden club in August but couldn't be present until now because she broke and had surgery on her ankle after a hiking accident and is looking forward to getting back solidly on two feet again. Her Boston Terrier has given her much comfort as she recovered.

Carole Sabbagh joined our garden club with the suggestion of our member and her neighbor Bev Germain. Upon retirement they moved to Laguna Sur/Pacific Island area from Pacific Palisides Highlands where she was active in Philanthropies and especially the "Los Dorados" Charities League that held many boutique fundraisers. Carole has been in property management and was on the Homeowners Association Landscape Committee. She is a current member of the Mozart Chapter of Orange County Performing Arts. Even though downsizing at retirement she still has a garden large enough to keep her busy and is very attentive to her 23 roses. She has raised two children and has five grandchildren.

Gail Kirpatrick just fell into a future of travel and advertising experiences because she grew up living with her Air Force family in Japan, Turkey and France which in turn created her interest in travel promotion. She worked 12 years in the television travel field and airline advertising, special event planning and marketing and promotion. She also worked an additional 12 years for Anaheim Disney in their marketing, airline marketing, and special events and promotions. Gail is an enthusiastic Master Gardener volunteering at the Farm Lab at the Great Park and the South Coast Research Center. A recent transformation of her property line with a neighbor was fun and also made an excellent open boundary between the yards using a dry creek bed, succulents, rocks and citrus trees.

Jacki Hanna just returned from a vacation in New York to give us some highlights of her life and excitement in joining the garden club and a special time to visit with her sister, Lyn Jax. She is a local gal that grew up in Hawthorne and Torrance and completed her first two years at El Camino Jr. College before receiving her B.A. from Long Beach State University with a degree in Speech Communications. She worked part time in sales for Robinson May while attending classes and went on as a Sales Supervisor. Jacki eventually went in to banking as a Financial Administrator and became a Bank Manager. She and her husband like to hike the trails near the Palm Springs Tramway in Murrieta near where they live. She had second thoughts about getting her husband a motorcycle which led to his encouraging her to also ride then came licensing for her own cycle but only trusts the back roads in

Laguna Beach Garden Club Speaker Series

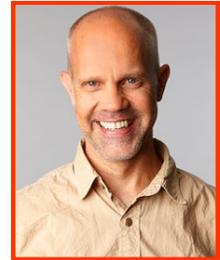

Fridays, November 8 and December 13

(It is recommended you arrive in Laguna Beach before 9 AM to find parking & make your way to the event, register, have a snack, mingle and visit our sales & information tables)

November 8 – Stephen Orr – “I want to do the right thing for the environment within the realm of economic circumstances,” Orr said, previous editorial director for gardening at Martha Stewart Living. “But at the same time, I want things to be beautiful.” In his new book, Tomorrow’s Garden: Design and Inspiration for a New Age of Sustainable Gardening, the key word for many readers will be “design”. The book is proof that gardeners can take so many different paths in making thoughtful choices about plants, hardscape, and water use.

December 13—Tony Bielaczyc is a former garden editor at Martha Stewart Living, where he produced garden stories for the flagship Living magazine and segments for the Emmy award-winning Martha Stewart TV show. His stories about his time at Martha Stewart Living are entertaining. He will speak about “How to Make the Most of Plant Combinations”. Come to be inspired and learn simple tips about color and plant combinations for container planting. *And Please join us in a reception for Tony on Thursday, December 12. Details for the reception area available on our website: www.lagunabeachgardenclub.org

RSVP using this email address: lagunabeachgardenclub@gmail.com There is no cost but you must have your “ticket” with you to be admitted.

Indicate the names of those who will be attending each of the 2 events along with their email addresses. Also include your city and how you heard about the Speak Series.

You will receive a return email with an attachment for you to print which will serve as your “TICKET”. It will include directions to our Laguna Beach location and maps to low-cost parking, as well as other information.

The Speaker Series is presented by the Laguna Beach Garden Club and sponsored with a grant from the Laguna Beach Community Foundation in partnership with the Massen Greene Foundation.

PENNY PINES

At every meeting, a voluntary "loose change" collection is taken from members to fund our Penny Pines Project. Jackie Kanaur, "collector of the coins," as she refers to herself, provides poster board explanations on how your contributions aid in the reforestation of Cleveland National Forest. In case you have not been able to read the information, we have included copies for you to enjoy at your leisure.

- The Penny Pines Program was initiated in California in 1941 under the sponsorship of the San Francisco Sportswomen's Association.
- The first contributions were used for reforestation of the Shasta-Trinity National Forests in Northern California.
- The minimum contribution continues to be $68.00 because historically seedlings could be produced for one cent and 680 seedlings were used to plant a typical acre. For $68.00 seedlings for ten acres could be purchased.

- Since 1964 funds contributed under the Penny Pines program are to be used for reforestation, rather than for the purchase of seedlings only.
- In Southern California, contributions may be used to prepare plantation sites for new trees or planting seedlings grown in Forest Service nurseries throughout California.
- Plantations are important for watershed protection, soil stabilization and shade for recreation areas. Any of these activities may be funded through Penny Pines donations.
- Those penny contributions have amounted to well over one million dollars, and the program is a statewide conservation project supported by numerous individuals and organizations like The Laguna Beach Garden Club.
- We contribute to the 460,000-acre Cleveland National forest which includes the Palomar, Descanso and Trabuco Ranger Districts.

OUR DONATIONS TO THE PENNY PINES PROJECT WILL BRING NEW LIFE INTO OUR NATIONAL FOREST

Thanks to all of you, Jackie has collected a total of $211.00 in our first two meetings. She says, "We can be very proud of collection amounts this year," as our total collections for 2011- 2012 were $470.25 and $604.00 for 2012 - 2013.

NOVEMBER GARDENING TIPS

November Tips: Southern California

Returning rains mean a greener landscape, beautiful roses, and finishing up fall planting.

Remember to water plants less frequently.

- Adjust your watering schedule for cooler weather, using less water.
- As the weather cools and the sun moves lower in the sky, reset your irrigation timer to water less frequently. However, don't change the number of minutes the system waters each time. In many areas, trees and shrubs will need watering only every week to week and a half, and citrus trees just once a month.

Planting Trees and Shrubs -- Continue planting perennials, groundcovers, herbs, roses, and trees and shrubs. Also plant native wildflowers such as California poppies.

Planting Trees and Shrubs

- There's also time to plant beds with cool-season flowers, such as pansies, calendula, candytuft, foxgloves, snapdragons, stock, sweet peas, and sweet alyssum.

- Complete planting of cool-season veggies, such as broccoli, carrots, cauliflowers, lettuces and greens, potatoes, radishes, and peas.
- Plant the cool-season bulbs you refrigerated in October as long as they've had 6-8 weeks chilling time. Or buy pre-chilled bulbs at the garden center.

Dividing Perennials -- Now is a good time to divide perennials, especially those that bloom in the spring. This way, they'll have time to establish themselves before it's time to flower.

Dividing Perennials

- Cooler weather is also the time to transplant small trees and shrubs.
- If you haven't already, fertilize cool-season lawns, such as bluegrass, using a product made especially for fall if possible, and one that also includes a pre-emergent herbicide. Don't feed warm-season lawns, such as Bermudagrass, so that they can begin their winter dormancy.
- You may get some of your best rose blooms this month. But stop fertilizing roses this month to encourage them to go dormant for a couple of months in January and February.
- In those areas where frosts are just an occasional thing, keep plantings well-watered so whenever a freeze threatens, plants are more likely to survive. A "turgid" well-hydrated plant is better-equipped to recover than a dehydrated plant.
- Watch for snails and slugs. As needed, set out bait.

Smart Pruning -- Prune deciduous fruit trees. After pruning, spray with dormant oil to prevent fungal diseases and pest problems.

Smart Pruning

- Cut ornamental grasses back to the ground once they show signs of new growth.

Planting Bare-Root Trees, Shrubs, and Roses -- Order bare-root trees and shrubs, roses, and vegetables for planting next month.

SOMETIME IN THE FUTURE

So, the Monarch Butterfly news has taken on a life of it's own. I have become rather obsessed. In fact, I just got back from a motorcycle trip where I heard one of the riders telling another, "I have learned more about butterflies this week than I ever knew before!" He just happened to be with a group of riders I ran into after my fascinating visit to the Pacific Grove Museum, a place where the Monarch's are overwintering. I was a bit overzealous with enthusiasm. Plus, there are 'a zillion' photos, representing each stage of the Monarch's life that my son and I have taken. I want to share all of them with you. And then, just about everyday, I learn more and more fascinating facts I want to include. So, Monarch's will occupy a bonus newsletter of their own, sometime in the future.

WHAT'S PESTERING PUMA?

APHIDS! They're useless, little orange, plant sucking vampires that sucktion the life out of my milkweeds. You know, milkweed, the ONLY plant the Monarch Butterfly larvae will eat! I looked it up: The safest way to kill them without hurting the Monarch's beginning stages of life? Rub each of them carefully with rubbing alcohol so as not to hurt the eggs or larvae on the plant. Right, I see myself doing this tomorrow, NOT! Or you can buy Lady bugs and Lacewings. I like that idea; if they'll stay. And the only redeeming quality I could find for aphids on the internet? They attract Lady bugs and Lacewings. So, I want aphids so I can have ladybugs? But, for those of you who have aphids on plants that don't maintain the life cycle of the monarch then you can kill them with soapy water. That's two parts water to one part soap (not detergent.)
